ROKIN

Certificate of Internship ROKIN GmbH

For Alhasan Alshaebi

We hereby confirm that Alhasan completed a voluntary internship at ROKIN GmbH from 14.09.2020 until 14.10.2020 for 20 hours per week, from 14.10.2020 until 13.11.2020 for 40 hours per week and from 16.11.2020 until 16.12.2020 for 20 hours per week in the area of AI. Alhasan invested his energy and his strengths to help ROKIN take a step forward.

ROKIN is a technology start-up in Munich that prides itself on being a member of the support program of the Strascheg Center for Entrepreneurship (SCE) at the University of Munich, as well as the Fellowship-Programme of the Media Lab Bayern. For those in the know, however, we are infinitely more: a close-knit team of technology-enthusiasts who aim for nothing less than to revolutionise innovation in companies. Our technology platform, the "Digital Engineer", enables engineers to find matching solutions to their problems – literally at the push of a button. This gives the organisations using our platform a powerful boost to their innovation activities.

If Alhasan hadn't been here with us these last months – where would the end result never have reached such a good standard?

Alhasan's area of responsibility included the following activities:

- Web crawling/Scraping
- In the areas:
    - Design and implementation of a general web crawler program using Python
    - Data cleaning and labelling

What Alhasan did and brought underway was really good – yet just as important to us was how he did it.

Alhasan brings much that you wish for in a start-up culture: a sharp mind, coupled with curiosity regarding what our solutions consist of and how they work, often rounded off with a readiness to think further and to contribute his own ideas. He has the courage to have an opinion and to champion it. Yet while doing that, Alhasan respectfully and attentively listens to others and shows himself open to compromise and able to integrate different ideas. This means that something usable and of good quality emerges.

Since our work environment is exclusively virtual, it was important that Alhasan works well in a "low-touch" setting – structuring his work independently, while recognising interfaces with other topics and areas of responsibility. Alhasan approaches others under his own steam for support, comes up with own ideas while delivering on time.

With his delight in pursuing the goals that he set for himself, Alhasan regularly works in teams together, sharing his expertise and working hard to create something good jointly. Furthermore, as he keeps an eye on the big picture while being meticulous in the detail we could trust him with complex tasks.

We'd also like to mention that Alhasan quickly integrated himself into our diverse team and showed to be a genuine people person. He became the go-to person for his colleagues, who trust him as he is open and doesn't avoid complex conversations. He brings teamwork to a good conclusion, using his diplomacy and empathy.

Overall, Alhasan always fulfilled our expectations to our full satisfaction.

We would like to thank Alhasan for the enjoyable cooperation and wish him all the best – both professionally and privately. We look forward to staying in contact with him.

If you have any further questions about Alhasan, please feel free to contact me at any time.
